Finish the year strong and dedicate yourself to successful strategies.

1. Attend and Actively Participate in Class.

- Engage in and grapple with the curriculum.
- Complete in-class assignments and earn all potential participation points.
- Interact with students and teachers.
- Raise your hand in class!
- Stay on task
- Take notes. Cornell notes.
- Don't leave the class confused.
- Find a study partner.

2. Use Google Classroom/Class Calendar.

- Download Google Classroom App. and check notifications.
- Subscribe to Class Calendar and check daily postings.
- Record all assignments daily, especially homework assignments. This will help you be more accountable to yourself and help your parents know what your daily assignments are.
- When your parents ask you what you have for homework, you will be able to show them.

3. Organized/ Neat 3-Ring Binder.

- Use dividers by subject area and collect all assignments in chronological order.
- Use this material as study guides for quizzes and tests.
- You can not study if you do not keep your study material.

4. Daily Use of AERIES Account.

- Access your teacher grade-book summary and follow your grades, assignments, quizzes, test scores daily.
- Know your syllabus.
- Know your percentage breakdowns:
- Beware of the "Red Boxes"---Incomplete assignments.

5. Communicate with Your Teachers.

- Follow up with your teachers regarding classroom progress, grades, assignments, missing work and concerns/struggles with the curriculum.
- Ask your teachers if you can turn in missing work.
- Make yourself available to them before school, break, hi-step, lunch or after school and make it a habit from day 1. Too many students do this only when grades are due. It's too late by this time!
- Ask your teachers if they allow retakes of quizzes or exams.

Finish the year strong and dedicate yourself to successful strategies.

6. Academic Coaching/Tutoring

- Take advantage of free academic coaching and tutoring offered before and after school.

7. Establish a Study Routine at Home.

At this stage in school, you should have an established routine in which you plan and follow up with your assignments, homework, and projects. Perhaps a designated place at home such as the kitchen table or your room where you can complete your homework and study independently. (Find your “Zen spot”-where you can concentrate the best)

- Deliberate and dedicated study time.
- The learning doesn’t stop even though the teaching has.
- Purposeful homework completion. Take time to understand it... “Don’t race through it just to get it done..”
- Get together with friends to start a study group.

8. Minimize External Distractions.

- Surrender excessive time on video games, i-phone, i-pad, internet, music, TV, hanging out outside. (You’d be surprised how much homework/study time is lost due to an over indulgence of recreational/leisure time.
- Turn off the TV, power down the I-pad/laptop, cellphone.
- Reward yourself with favorite activities AFTER your work is complete.

9. Take advantage of Hi-Step.

- Hi-Step-Study Hall is an extra 24 minutes of school time you can use to complete homework, classwork or reading.
- Hi-Step Tutorial is an extra 24 minutes of school time you can get extra curriculum time.
- Don’t waste it!
- Ask Hi-Step coordinators to join a specific subject if available.

10. Get and stay Involved.

- Join a Club
- Join a Program
- Join a Sport
- Be diligent in balancing your time and managing your responsibilities with clubs, programs, sports and academics.

*If you're shy, ask a friend to go with you.
