

AP EXAM INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS AND PARENTS

Here are 7 easy steps to take before your AP exams to ensure that you are ready to test at home. Of course, the most important step is to know the material and practice the skills before the exam. The following seven steps are practical items to ensure a proper testing experience. If you have any questions, please reach out to the teacher of the course, or Shannon Appenrodt. sappenrodt@fjuhsd.org

1. Make sure that you can log on to the College Board website, and check your username, email, and add your phone number to receive texts.

2. Please print the AP Testing Guide to have next to you during the exam.

If an item is not in the testing guide, make your own decision. For example, you can single or double space your response. You can use a pen or pencil if you handwrite. You can use class resources, but are not supposed to use resources from the internet.

3. After May 4th, go to AP 2020 Exam

This practice portal will allow you to make sure that you have the technology available to log on to the exam and submit on exam day.

Disable Grammarly if you have it. The exam will not work if you have Grammarly installed on your Chromebook. Also, please note that the exam will not work with Internet Explorer.

4. You need to access your ticket. This will be emailed to you, and will also be available on your College Board Portal. Please see the video for more clarification.

5. Create a plan. Are you going to handwrite responses? Are you going to type responses and copy and paste them? Or are you going to submit your document for each question? You should have papers ready beforehand with your AP number in the top left corner.

On EXAM DAY

6. Have a quiet space designated for the exam with good Wifi connection.
Log in 30 minutes before the exam starts. Remember- we are Pacific time zone.
You HAVE to submit your response before time runs out. You can't ask for a make up exam based on not submitting a response. Your answers should be your own. You may not communicate with others or use internet resources. All responses will be screened for cheating and dealt with appropriately by Sonora High School and the College Board.
7. You will get a confirmation page at the end - if you don't get a confirmation page, you should submit that information to the College Board and request a make up ticket. The confirmation page may take some time to load. Please do not exit out of the browser until you receive that confirmation page. Please see the video below for more test day submission information.
